

Beth Bordeaux, MSW

With a master's degree in Social Work from UNC-Chapel Hill, Beth also has specialized training in congregational development, conflict management, emotional intelligence, Anglican polity and theological studies of the Old and New Testaments.

For over a decade, Beth has served in the public and private sectors, planning and evaluating human service programs, including services related to quality child care, family support, supports for persons with developmental disabilities, addictions and mental illnesses and community college institutional effectiveness.

In 2002, she expanded her work to reach churches and denominational organizations.

*"Beth Bordeaux had an immeasurable impact on the positive formation of our agency which is now recognized as one of the premier public local management agencies in the state." —Beth Melcher, Clinical Director
The Durham Center*

Planning & Ministry Review is critical for the church today . . .

To make the best use of the web of resources and gifts in responding to God's call

To increase congregational health through better communication and listening to one another and to God

To realize common bonds of unity

To gain purpose and clarity

To recognize creativity and passion

To stay the course in ministry

To maximize engagement

Planning & Ministry Review Cycle

A Growing Problem . . .

Many churches are adrift today in a sea of blurred vision, mixed messages and program paralysis.

GTM is guiding them back on course through a comprehensive, cost-effective method to build consensus for clearly-defined visions, unified missions and purposeful programs.

The GTM process begins with an objective look at how the church views itself. Through a series of personal interviews and written questionnaires, GTM client churches receive an accurate assessment of congregational or parish perceptions.

Survey findings are used to develop and communicate unified messages of purpose to provide foundations for goal setting, planning and program enhancement.

RESULT—the best use of resources available in response to God’s call.

A Productive Partnership . . .

GTM consultants work in partnership with clergy and lay leaders to make certain results reflect individual and corporate personalities. Cookie-cutter solutions are replaced by a series of individualized action steps, areas of responsibility and target completion dates.

The success of partnership recommendations are further enhanced through a comprehensive communications plan utilizing all available media.

The GTM partnership begins with a no-obligation meeting at which the consultant provides program components, costs and time lines. Based on client preferences, written program recommendations follow.

A Proven Track Record . . .

Beth Bordeaux, founder and president of GTM Evaluation & Planning, Inc. has helped a number of churches, faith-based and human service organizations return from failing health to missional fitness.

This same service is available for you. Take the first step by calling GTM at 919-612-2168 to schedule a complimentary introductory meeting.

“Beth is a highly skilled, dedicated partner in problem-solving and planning.”
